About Sedgwick County

History

Originally a camping ground of the Osage and Wichita Indian tribes, Sedgwick County, Kansas is thought to be a place of discovery for such explorers as Francisco Coronado and Kit Carson. The earliest European settler to the region was M. DuTissenet, a Frenchman operating under the direction of the governor of Louisiana, in 1719. DuTissenet brought with him soldiers, traders, and hunters who soon populated and transformed the region from prairie to a land of opportunity.

Sedgwick County was officially established nearly 150 years later on February 26, 1867, and bears the name of Civil War hero Major General John Sedgwick of the Union Army who was killed during the battle of Spotsylvania Courthouse in Virginia. After an initial failed attempt at establishing an official county government, the Governor of the State of Kansas appointed three Commissioners to aid in the effort. In April of 1870, the first County officials were elected and the County seat of Wichita was chosen.

Geography

Occupying 1,008 square miles of land in south central Kansas, Sedgwick County falls within the borders of the Arkansas River Lowlands. It is noted for its extreme flatness, as its highest point is only 1,540 feet above sea level. The County's lowest point, approximately 1,220 feet above sea level, occurs along the southern border where the Arkansas River leaves the County. Sedgwick County's largest city is Wichita, which is located along Interstate 35 with service areas to Interstate 135, US 54, and various other highways.

Population

Sedgwick County is a growing region, currently home to an estimated 508,000 citizens. The County's population has increased 13.1 percent since 2000 and has increased significantly faster than the population of Kansas as a whole (8.1 percent since 2000). According to 2016 census estimates, Sedgwick County surpassed the half-million mark with an estimated 500,900 people in 2011. The population of Sedgwick County is expected to grow to approximately 630,439 by 2064. In addition to a strong growth trend, the U.S. Census Bureau, 2015 American Community Survey, reports Sedgwick County is a relatively young community, with 87.3 percent of its population younger than the age of 65. By 2064, however, the number of citizens age 65 and older is expected to increase to 140,817, a 116.4 percent change from 2014 to 2064.

Economic Condition and Outlook

Sedgwick County is a regional economic center with manufacturing, health care service, and retail trade as primary industries. The economic information contained in this brochure was drawn from publications of the Center for Economic Development and Business Research (CEDBR) at Wichita State University and from the U.S. Department of Labor. The Wichita metropolitan statistical area (MSA) is comprised of Sedgwick, Butler, Harvey, Kingman and Sumner Counties in Kansas.

Employment/Income

The United States Department of Labor reported that the average 2017 labor force for the Wichita MSA was 309,338 residents, a slight decrease of 0.2 percent from 2016. The Center for Economic Development and Business Research at Wichita State University reports as of December 2017 the labor force for the Wichita MSA at 307,987. Of those who are eligible for employment, approximately 96.6 percent (297,521) were employed in 2017. According to the American Community Survey, as posted on the Center for Economic Development and Business Research at Wichita State University's website, the 2017 median income was $52,068 for households in Sedgwick County, up from $51,424 in 2016 and $51,059 in 2015.

Property Values/Tax Payers

Similar to other jurisdictions, Sedgwick County has continued to address modest growth in property valuations by making operational changes. Prior to the national recession, assessed property valuations grew by an average of 5.5 percent annually between 1999 and 2009. Since that time, assessed valuations were below 1.0 percent for three years (2010 to 2012), and fell in value for the 2013 budget by 0.7 percent. In 2016, there was an increase to 1.4 percent, and assessed value increased to 2.8 percent in 2017. Assessed value increased by 3.3 percent in 2018. In Sedgwick County, residential property accounts for the largest percentage (61.3 percent) of the total assessed value of real property. The second largest is commercial property, comprising 35.4 percent of the County's total assessed value of real property. The large percentage of residential property shows that individuals and families recognize the County as a growing community where they can purchase a home and establish roots, while the large portion of commercial property shows that the County's business environment is also favorable. Another economic indicator is the total assessed value of the largest five taxpayers compared to the total assessed valuation of the County. A concentrated property tax base can be detrimental to a community in times of economic downturn, especially if a jurisdiction's largest taxpayers are in the same industry. Sedgwick County's largest five taxpayers comprised 7.83 percent of the County's total assessed value in 2017.

Cost of Living/Housing

The current overall cost of living in Wichita is below the national average of 100 on the Overall Cost of Living Index. Compared to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma (84.6), Omaha, Nebraska (91.8), Dallas, Texas (100.4), and Kansas City, Missouri-Kansas (93.1), the overall cost of living for area residents (91.8) is comparable to other area communities. As of Dec 2017, the median home sales price in Wichita for new and existing homes was $145,000.

About the Sedgwick County Government

Sedgwick County utilizes a Commission/Manager form of government under which the County Manager's Office implements the priorities and goals of the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC). The BOCC is the County's governing body. It is comprised of five-members and meets in regular weekly sessions. Commissioners are elected according to geographical area (districts) and serve four-year overlapping terms. The Chairman of the Board is elected by the Commissioners and serves a one-year term. In addition to the BOCC, citizens of Sedgwick County elect the County Clerk, the Register of Deeds, the County Treasurer, the Sheriff, the District Attorney and the 18th Judicial District Judges.

Sedgwick County is recognized by the International City-County Management Association as a Council-Manager form of government. Accordingly, the Board appoints a professional County Manager to administer most County functions and to implement policy decisions. ager for the Department of Public Works, Facilities Maintenance & Project Services.
